tan Tata implicitly trusted and valued immensely for views and advice on important issues. He was also the go-to man at Bombay House when Natarajan Chandrasekaran took charge as chairman of Tata Sons, an event that led to exit of several Tata senior officials seen as close to Cyrus Mistry. A long-pending goal recently fulfilled was the induction of Noel Tata on the board of Tata Trusts. Soonawala finally managed to convince chairman Ratan Tata and his fellow trustees on inducting Noel Tata into the board of the Trustees.

A Tata Trustee told ET recently that Soonawala was not one to mince his words: "He is extremely fit for his age. He's the sharpest financial mind and never clamours for power and hated even being seen as a person wielding influence."

Soonawala is also credited with the TCS listing, having ensured that the Tata Trusts got a fair deal in the unlocking of value when the IT software company went for an initial public offering. Soonawala also had singular habits. He never used a mobile phone and avoided long travel, especially international flights. Tata group's former general counsel Bharat Vasani said in an interaction with ET earlier:

"He is a man with integrity. He would even return 50 paise for a revenue stamp taken from the office and he is also extraordinarily gifted at finance."
